with regard to increases in bar prices and the effect on student provision before the matter is considered by Finance Committee. The UCS President had consulted the Bar Committee and it had been agreed that they would be prepared to increase bar prices to cover the cost of paying the Living Wage to student workers. The Bursar agreed to investigate the cost of implementing the Living Wage for casuals and student workers including any indirect costs. Finance Committee agreed to review whether or not to apply for accreditation following that investigation. Council will review this item again at its next meeting on 15 June.

(v) Data Protection: FOI Publication Scheme.

The College Data Protection Lead (CDPL), Miss Easterbrook, had updated the FOI Publication Scheme. Council formally approved the updated FOI Publication Scheme.

(vi) Admissions Interviews

The Admissions Tutors, Professor Howard Griffiths and Professor Tim Chesters, circulated a consultation surrounding access and agreed to hold further discussions regarding future years. After a discussion by the Admissions Forum regarding the format for admissions interviews both for the academic year 2022-23 and for future years, the colleges were asked to take part in a consultation on remote interviews. At Clare, this was distributed to Directors of Studies and some other interviewers, and the Clare results were presented to Council. At the last Admissions Forum all colleges agreed to hold the admissions interviews for the academic year 2022-23 on-line, except Trinity which will have in-person interviews. One other college is undecided. It was reported that schools see advantages and disadvantages in on-line interviews. It was reported that the University-wide results of the consultation showed mathematics and music stood out as wanting in-person interviews. Professor Dunajski requested that admissions interviews for the academic year 2022-23 for mathematics in the College be held in-person. Council decided that admissions interviews for all subjects will be held on-line for the academic year 2022-23, in line with nearly all other colleges. However, it agreed to hold further discussions regarding future years.
